Hospitals & Health Centers

PROYECO understands the Health Building as projects that need to prioritize the functionality, the horizontal-vertical order, the flexibility in the spaces generation system, the compatibility with adaptations and growth, the sustainability and high technology, keeping in a second plane the bound design, to be understood as mere servant of the main object and not as the reason for the project.

PROYECO strives to understand the operation of each area and its interrelation with the others to optimize the design and the location of the pieces that make up the overall building, from the most basic one to the most complex one.

Arnulfo Arias Hospital, Guararé ULAPS in Panamá, La Placilla Health Center, Quintero Hospital in Chile, Ciudad Mujer care centers in Morazán and in San Martín are some examples of health projects most recently built.
